COOPER, District Judge

Plaintiff, a prisoner at the Monmouth County Correctional Institution, Freehold, New Jersey, seeks to bring a civil action in forma pauperis, without prepayment of fees or security, asserting claims pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983.¹ Based on Plaintiff's affidavit of indigence and prison account statement, the Court will grant his application to proceed in forma pauperis pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a) and order the Clerk of the Court to file the complaint.

The Court must review the complaint pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1915(e)(2) and 1915A to determine whether it should be dismissed as frivolous or malicious, for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted, or because it seeks monetary relief from a defendant who is immune from such relief. For the following reasons, the complaint will be dismissed without prejudice.

BACKGROUND

Plaintiff states that on July 18, 2006, his family home was "raided" by the Ocean County Strike Force and two of his dogs were killed by officers. Plaintiff alleges that an officer came into the home shouting at his sister and her two children. He contends that $10,000 worth of damage was done to the home and that no drugs or weapons were found. Plaintiff states that the "wrongful deaths" of his dogs were blamed on "the dog catcher or vet." (Compl., ¶ 6).

Plaintiff alleges that he was stopped on that same day in a motor vehicle and was "punched, kicked and called racial names, using excessive force and denying [him] medical attention until [he] was transported to Lakewood Police Station where [he] was transported to Kimball Medical Center where x-rays and cat scans [were] taken and [he] was sent to Ocean County Jail." (Compl., ¶ 6).

Plaintiff also states that his name and address were published in the Asbury Park Press and Ocean County Observer newspapers, which described him as an informant in a murder and that he was facing drug charges. (Compl., ¶ 4).

Plaintiff seeks to sue the following defendants: Ocean County Prosecutor's Office, for releasing information to the newspapers and jeopardizing his family's life; the Ocean County Strike Force, for killing his dogs and the assault on his person on July 18, 2006; the Asbury Park Press and Ocean County Observer, for publishing articles about him; the Lakewood Police Department, for not protecting him from the Ocean County Strike Force; and Lakewood Township, for the circumstances surrounding the killing of the dogs. Plaintiff requests monetary relief.

DISCUSSION

A. Standard of Review

The Prison Litigation Reform Act ("PLRA") was enacted "primarily to curtail claims brought by prisoners under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and the Federal Tort Claims Act . . . many of which are routinely dismissed as legally frivolous." Santana v. United States, 98 F.3d 752, 755 (3d Cir. 1996). To curtail meritless prisoner suits, the PLRA requires – under 28 U.S.C. § 1915A(b) – that a court dismiss, at the earliest practicable time, any prisoner actions that are frivolous or malicious, fail to state a claim, or seek monetary relief from immune defendants.

When determining the sufficiency of a complaint, the Court must be mindful to construe it liberally in favor of the plaintiff. See Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519 (1972); United States v. Day, 969 F.2d 39, 42 (3d Cir. 1992). The Court should "accept as true all of the allegations in the complaint and reasonable inferences that can be drawn therefrom, and view them in the light most favorable to the plaintiff." Morse v. Lower Merion School Dist., 132 F.3d 902, 906 (3d Cir. 1997). But the Court need not credit a pro se plaintiff's "bald assertions" or "legal conclusions." Id.

A pro se complaint may be dismissed for failure to state a claim only if it appears "'beyond doubt that the plaintiff can prove no set of facts in support of his claim which would entitle him to relief.'" Haines, 404 U.S. at 521 (quoting Conley v. Gibson, 355 U.S. 41, 45-46 (1957)).

B. 42 U.S.C. § 1983

A plaintiff may have a cause of action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for certain violations of constitutional rights. To establish a violation of 42 U.S.C. § 1983, a plaintiff must demonstrate that the challenged conduct (1) was committed by a person acting under color of state law, and (2) deprived him of rights, privileges, or immunities secured by the Constitution or laws of the United States. See Adickes v. S.H. Kress & Co., 398 U.S. 144, 152 (1970); Piecknick v. Pennsylvania, 36 F.3d 1250, 1255-56 (3d Cir. 1994).

C. Claims Against Newspapers

Plaintiff seeks to sue the Asbury Park Press and Ocean County Observer for publishing articles about his situation. But these private newspaper defendants are not state actors subject to liability under § 1983. Plaintiff alleges no facts indicating that they should be construed as state actors. Thus, any claim asserted against them under § 1983 must be dismissed for failure to state a claim pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1915(e)(2)(B)(ii) and 1915A(b)(1). To the extent that Plaintiff is asserting claims of libel, slander, or defamation against these non-state actors under state law, the Court will decline to exercise supplemental jurisdiction over those claims. See 28 U.S.C. § 1367(c)(3).²

D. Claims Regarding Death of Pets

Plaintiff seeks to sue the Ocean County Strike Force, the Lakewood Police Department, and the Township of Lakewood, for the deaths of his two pet dogs.³ Plaintiff does not name as a defendant any individual officer responsible for the deaths of these pets.

² A district court, upon dismissing all claims over which there is original jurisdiction, may decline to exercise supplemental jurisdiction over a related state law claim. 28 U.S.C. § 1367(c)(3). Where all federal claims are dismissed before trial, "the district court must decline to decide the pendent state claims unless considerations of judicial economy, convenience, and fairness to the parties provide an affirmative justification for doing so." Hedges v. Musco, 204 F.3d 109, 123 (3d Cir. 2000) (citations omitted). As no such extraordinary circumstances appear to be present, this Court will dismiss these potential state law claims without prejudice.

The "killing of a person's dog by a law enforcement officer constitutes a seizure under the Fourth Amendment." Brown v. Muhlenberg Twp., 269 F.3d 205, 210 (3d Cir. 2001). Thus, to be constitutionally permissible, the officer's seizure must have been "reasonable." See id. But a defendant is not liable for any such constitutional deprivation unless "there is a direct causal link between a municipal policy or custom and the alleged constitutional deprivation." See id. at 214 (quoting City of Canton v. Harris, 489 U.S. 378, 385 (1989)). There are two ways to show a direct causal link: (1) if a defendant is alleged to have caused a constitutional tort through a policy statement, ordinance, regulation, or decision officially adopted and promulgated by its officers; or (2) when a custom, or usage, for § 1983 purposes has the force of law by virtue of the persistent practices of government officials. Brown, 269 F.3d at 215.

Plaintiff here has not alleged facts supporting a claim for municipal liability. Plaintiff has failed to allege facts either indicating any official policy endorsing the unnamed officer's conduct, or establishing the existence of an unconstitutional governmental custom. Therefore, the Court will dismiss the claims against the Township defendants regarding the killing of the dogs.

The claims against the Ocean County Strike Force as to the killing of the dogs also must be dismissed, as Plaintiff does not name as defendants any individual officer responsible for the deaths.

E. Claims Regarding Statement to Press

Plaintiff names the Ocean County Prosecutor's Office as a defendant, stating that it jeopardized his life by telling the newspapers that he was an informant in a murder case and that there were drug charges pending against him. Plaintiff indicates that the story reported to the press "wasn't true jeopardizing my life and my family's life". (Compl., ¶ 4(b)).

Plaintiff has alleged facts indicating a § 1983 claim as to the Prosecutor's allegedly false statements to the press, sufficient to avoid sua sponte dismissal. See Buckley v. Fitzsimmons, 509 U.S. 259 (1993) (holding prosecutor was not entitled to absolute immunity in § 1983 case for out-of-court statements to press). But Plaintiff has not named as a proper defendant the person whom Plaintiff alleges made these statements to the press. He names only the Ocean County Prosecutor's Office in this regard. Therefore, Plaintiff will be permitted to file an amended claim here, naming a proper personal defendant.

F. Claim Regarding Assault

Plaintiff claims that he "was assaulted on July 18, 2006 by officers by being punched [] and called racial names at Andrews Corner in Lakewood after I was stopped by [an] unmarked unit.” (Compl., ¶ 4(c)). He names as a defendant to this claim the Ocean County Strike Force. Plaintiff alleges facts indicating that he received injuries as a result of the assault, as he states that he was eventually treated at a medical center.

A claim of excessive force by law enforcement officials in the course of an arrest, investigatory stop, or other seizure of a free citizen is analyzed under the Fourth Amendment’s reasonableness standard. See Graham v. Connor, 490 U.S. 386, 395 (1989); Nelson v. Jashurek, 109 F.3d 142, 145 (3d Cir. 1997); United States v. Johnstone, 107 F.3d 200, 204 (3d Cir. 1997). The reasonableness inquiry is an objective one: “the question is whether the officers’ actions are ‘objectively reasonable’ in light of the facts and circumstances confronting them, without regard to their underlying intent or motivation.” Graham, 490 U.S. at 397; see Mosley v. Wilson, 102 F.3d 85, 94 (3d Cir. 1996); Baker v. Monroe Twp., 50 F.3d 1186, 1193 (3d Cir. 1995). It “requires careful attention to the facts and circumstances of each particular case, including the severity of the crime at issue, whether the suspect poses an immediate threat to the safety of the officers or others, and whether he is actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade arrest by flight.” Graham, 490 U.S. at 396.

Plaintiff has alleged facts sufficient to avoid sua sponte dismissal; nevertheless, he has not named a proper defendant, i.e., the officers who committed the assault against him. Plaintiff will be permitted to file an amended complaint to address this deficiency.

CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, the complaint will be dismissed without prejudice. See Alston v. Parker, 363 F.3d 229, 234 n.7 (3d Cir. 2004) (stating that with a complaint that makes "little sense," District Court could have dismissed complaint without prejudice, to permit Plaintiff to amend the complaint to make it plain). The Court notes that "generally, an order which dismisses a complaint without prejudice is neither final nor appealable because the deficiency may be corrected by the plaintiff without affecting the cause of action." Martin v. Brown, 63 F.3d 1252, 1257-58 (3d Cir. 1995) (quoting Borelli v. City of Reading, 532 F.2d 950, 951 (3d Cir. 1976)). In this case, if Plaintiff can correct the deficiencies of the complaint, he may file an amended complaint in accordance with the attached Order.
